- There are already so many educational videos available on YouTube! You can curate your own playlists!
 - Organize playlists by unit or topic.
 - Partially “flip” your classroom, so students can access information, lectures, or direct teaching at home, and focus more on PBL in the classroom.
- Showcase your own videos or your students’ videos in one place!

Creating a playlist

- The “VIDEO MANAGER” button is the most important button on YouTube. It is the only way to access all of the various functions and options connected to your channel.

FYI - This only shows up when you click on “VIDEO MANAGER” on the top of the screen.

Create your own content (TIME CONSUMING, but you'll have it for years and it's in your own style!)

- Upload tutorials, slideshows, or lectures for your students. Students can watch them at home. They can watch videos of you (or hear your voice) going over tests, explaining longer concepts, reviewing strategies, dissecting prompts, and explaining writing or thinking processes), so that they can come to class with prior knowledge. This frees up the class period to engage in discussions, extend their learning, or focus on projects, performance tasks, and other “hands-on” collaborative exercises.

Creating your OWN YouTube videos.

- Screencasts (there are MANY free sites that allow you to download software that allows you to capture your desktop screen – I use Camtasia, but it's not free.)
- YouTube Video Editor – “Creator Studio”
- WeVideo
- Doceri (iPad app)
- iMovie or Windows Movie Maker
- Webcam, document camera, regular camera
- etc.....

YouTube Tips & Tricks

- MUSIC: YouTube has a repository of copyright free music and other music (that you simply need to “attribute” in the description box). Go to “Video Manager” and click on “Create” to see the audio library, check copyright regulations on songs, etc...
- NO COMMENTS: Always uncheck the comments and ratings options when you “publish” your videos.
- UNLISTED: You can publish videos as “unlisted” so the only people who can access your video are the ones with a link.
- PRIVATE -> PUBLIC: You can publish your videos as a “private” video, and then change the setting to “public” when you’re ready for it to go live.
